

STORY 1

of the early days of automobile manufacture.

Elwood Haynes took his ideas to the machine shop of one Apperson, where the new gasoline buggy was developed. The Haynes-Apperson Company was formed, and the car was later marketed under the name of the Apperson Jackrabbit. (And by the way, B. C. Buxton, who started all this delving into the personal history of drivers, was at one time vice president of this company.)

Harley Haynes, a mere boy in 1900, helped to build the first car made by the Haynes-Apperson Company, and started his driving career in 1903. He had the honor of using from time to time the first car built by the company.

He tells with glee of the time Elwood Haynes drove his two-wheeled chariot down the celebrated "Boul' Mich" in Chicago, (Michigan avenue to you) and was brusquely halted by traffic officers and ordered to get that contraption off the boulevard, which in those days was sacred to the spanking teams and shining luxurious carriages of the idle rich. Haynes would like to know whether the bold officer who chased his kinsman off the famous boulevard is still on duty there and whether he thinks of that early encounter as he watches the motor cars spin by at 80 miles an hour. Haynes quit the automobile game in 1922 and came to California. He has lived in Torrance for a number of years and still drives daily to and from Los Angeles where he is employed. His record is still 100 percent.

And incidentally, not to let the men claim all the honors, we have the record of Mrs. W. T. Jones, who recently moved from this city to Terminal Island. Mrs. Jones has been driving for 22 years, without once having to stand up before the judge to answer to a traffic complaint. Let's hear from some more of the fair sex. They are supposed to be better drivers than the men.

All Voters Must Register After January 1, Says Kerr

Names of every local registered voter must be stricken from the great register of Los Angeles county at the end of this year, in accordance with a recent ruling of the state supreme court.

Sometime after January 1, persons may re-register, however, it was explained by W. M. Kerr, registrar of voters. Cost of the re-registration will be approximately $141,000, Kerr estimated, and county officials had debated as to whether or not to include the item in the final budget, at the time the preliminary budget was being discussed.

Eastern Star Installation Is Impressive

Mrs. Lillian Dye Takes Office As Matron Amid Bower of Flowers

Mrs. Edith Kasper, junior past matron of 53d California district, Order of Eastern Star, was the installing matron, and E. N. Tomkins, installing patron, when officers of Torrance chapter, Order of Eastern Star, assumed their duties for the ensuing year at an impressive ceremony in the Masonic temple, Wednesday evening. Some 200 persons attended the affair which was marked with lovely floral display. The temple was decorated in orchid and white cellophane colors of the incoming matron, Mrs. Lillian Dye, who was lovely in a gown of pale pink satin.

Other officers seated were W. West, worthy patron; Estelle Graham, associate worthy matron; Frank Krekow, associate worthy patron; Rose Arnold Winters, secretary; Jennie Moore, treasurer; Jean Mosher, conductress; Sallie West, associate conductress; Hazel Fossum, marshal; Lorraine Ulrich, chaplain; Juliette Johnson, organist; Cicely Perkins, Ada; Mary Kirshman, Ruth; Frances Buckley, Esther; Lecl Kerber, Martha; Edith Scrivner, Electa; Maude McNeill, warder, and Rose Tyra, sentinel.

As a result of this supreme court ruling, which decided a point not clear, due to an amendment of the 1935 legislature, the registrar of voters department will cost the county taxpayers more than a half million dollars this year. The supervisors allowed the department $265,000 for salaries, $232,000 for maintenance and operation, and $7,000 for capital outlay, a total of some $504,000. Of this total, $141,868 is for registration of voters, the budget specifies.

Primary elections will cost the department $88,000 next year, nothing being set up in the 1935-36 budget for the general election to follow, which must be met out of the coming year's budget.

In addition to the $504,000 for the registrar of voters, the fact that a supervisory election must be held next year will necessitate the expenditure of an additional $202,840 by the board of supervisors. The primary election will cost an estimated $171,040, in addition to $88,000 from the registrar of voters department. This is because salaries of election officers are met by the supervisors. While the election is not held until August, and the fiscal year ends June 30, orders for primary election materials will be placed some weeks earlier.
